Fujitsu Launches Infinite Comfort Pro App

Fujitsu General America introduces its new Infinite Comfort Pro app, designed to help HVAC contractors easily find Fujitsu General Halcyon mini-split and Airstage J-Series systems.

This free app allows contractors and distributors to view Fujitsu General's product offering and sort by SEER, BTU, and more. Under the Projects tab, a contractor can create a matched single or multi-zone system. For Halcyon multi-zone systems, the app checks allowable combinations in real time, eliminating the concern of mismatching indoor and outdoor units. The app also features a built-in lineset length function.

After selecting the units needed based on user inputs, the Infinite Comfort Pro app also provides product details, and allows the user to save system information to a job profile. Information can then be quickly and simply emailed to the user or others involved in the project.

The app is available for Apple or Android devices, and is free to download.
